

Organizers:
Embassy of Japan
in the Republic of Azerbaijan
Baku State University

Lecture by Professor Emeritus
Takeo Funabiki

Cultural Anthropology University of Tokyo

“Again, inscrutable Japanese? –
How they behaved in and after the Great Earthquake?”
~ About what the Japanese nation is ~
~~~~~

~~~~~
Date: Monday, 05 November 2012
Time: 15:00

Venue: BSU Hall, New Building, 1st floor
Language: English

CURRICULUM VITAE

Prof. Takeo FUNABIKI (Ph.D.)

Born 18th February, 1948, Tokyo; Japanese.

Married; four children

Degrees:

B. A. University of Tokyo, 1972, (Cultural Anthropology).

M. A. University of Tokyo, 1974, (Cultural Anthropology).

Ph. D. University of Cambridge, 1982, (Social Anthropology).

Academic positions:

1981-1983 Assistant Lecturer in Cultural Anthropology, University of Tokyo.

1983-1985 Lecturer in Cultural Anthropology, University of Tokyo.

1985-1994 Associate Professor in Cultural Anthropology, University of Tokyo.

1994-2012 Professor in Cultural Anthropology, University of Tokyo.

Fieldworks:

Melanesia (Vanuatu, Papua New Guinea), Polynesia (Hawaii, Tahiti), Japan (Yamagata) and East Asia (China, Republic of Korea).

Majored interest:

Mutual interference between the naturalness and cultural instinct of human, expression and mechanism of ceremony and play and changes of a culture and society in the modernization process.

Author:

"When a national culture is born (国民文化が生まれる時)";

"Technique of wisdom (知の技法)";

"Discovery of new human (新たな人間の発見)";

"Kunio Yanagita (a Japanese folklorist) (柳田国男)";

"Theory of second generation (二世論)";

"Review of the theory of Japanese (『日本人論』再考)";

""Ethnograffiti" of university (大学のエスノグラフィティ)";

"Motherland Japan for both a right-wing and left-wing (右であれ左であれ, わが祖国日本)";

"Living Field".